Madrid, 10 June, 2020.

Infinite Spur, Pontifical Catholic University of Puerto Rico, Pontifical Catholic University of Peru, Universidad La Salle Noroeste and Universidad de La Salle Bajío, met yesterday to prepare the next international round table to be held next Thursday, June 17th under the title: "Trends, Innovation and Challenges in Education and Teaching of Fashion Management and Design."

Although our borders remain closed, they not prevent us to continue working in collaboration with other international institutions to build a better future. In this preparatory meeting, the five educational institutions were able to discuss their particular experiences during this pandemic; reflect on the challenges of shifting to virtual education, discuss the role of innovation and creativity during the pandemic, explore the new trends and challenges of the profession and discuss the new opportunities for international collaboration offered by this new virtual environment.

There is no doubt that this will be a very interesting event and forum of discussion for further actions and reflections. This session is open to all participants and I want to invite you to join us next week. Save the date on your calendar and we will soon keep you posted with more information and instructions for the registration of the event.
